

Name: Sentient Ultimate Swampfire

One-line Introduction: A sentient form of Ultimate Swampfire who was trapped in the Ultimatrix and later freed by Azmuth and Ben.

Appearance: The sentient Ultimate Swampfire has the same appearance as Ultimate Swampfire, but he has red eyes and lacks the evolved Ultimatrix symbol on his chest.

History: In "The Ultimate Sacrifice", the sentient Ultimate Swampfire, along with other Ultimates, tried to convince Ben to commit suicide so they could be freed. Azmuth stopped Ben and freed the Ultimates, taking them to his lab so they could live comfortably and usefully.

Weaknesses: The sentient Ultimate Swampfire is vulnerable to electricity, such as that generated by an Amperi. While Evolved Methanosians appear to be resistant to radiation, Ultimate Swampfire has been shown to be potentially hurt by the force of a radiation attack.

Powers and Abilities: The sentient Ultimate Swampfire possesses a higher degree of chlorokinesis than a devolved Methanosian, allowing him to telepathically interface with plant life. He can ignite a kerosene gel-like solution in his arms to generate blue-colored flames that are much hotter than a Methanosian's, capable of disintegrating Petrosapien's shard projectiles and melting through a brick wall. The sentient Ultimate Swampfire has fire bombs on his arms which he can pick off and throw as lethal explosives, and he can shoot out a large cluster of bombs from his hands that separate and detonate individually. He retains a Methanosian's ability to generate seeds and vines, as well as their regeneration and elasticity. He is very strong, able to force the mouth of the Plant Alien open to throw a fire bomb inside. The sentient Ultimate Swampfire is a lot faster than he looks, as seen when Ultimate Swampfire snuck up behind Eon so fast that he didn't notice. The sentient Ultimate Swampfire can breathe and generate fire underwater and is resistant to radiation.

Personality: Not mentioned.