

Name: Ultimate Humungousaur

One-line Introduction: Ultimate Humungousaur is the Ultimatrix's artificially evolved DNA sample of a Vaxasaurian.

Appearance: Negative Ultimate Humungousaur is a humanoid dinosaur-like creature with dark blue armor similar to that of an Ankylosaurus. He is more burly and muscular than his pre-evolved form and has camo green skin. His helmet has three silver spikes running down the top, and two downward-pointing black horns on the sides. His back armor has long spikes running down each side, his plated chest and torso are dark blue with five spikes on each end, and his tail has a blue mace on the end of it, with silver spikes. Ultimate Humungousaur's knuckles have silver barrels that he can transform into four-barreled missile launchers, and he also has black claws. He wears the evolved Ultimatrix symbol on his chest. In Omniverse, Negative Ultimate Humungousaur has greyish-tan skin, his spikes are yellowish-brown, and his shoulders sport armor plating. His overall appearance is more techno-organic, almost like a cyborg, with exposed metallic tubes and black "veins" on his skin. His missile launchers also have a fleshy look. He wears the Ultimatrix symbol on his chest, slightly tilted to the right. Ben's Ultimate Humungousaur in Ultimate Alien looks exactly like Negative Ultimate Humungousaur in Alien Force, except his eyes and Ultimatrix symbol are green.
