

Name: Humungousaur

One-line Introduction: Humungousaur is the Omnitrix's DNA sample of a Vaxasaurian from the planet Terradino.

Appearance: Humungousaur is a semi-humanoid dinosaur with long arms and short legs, standing at 12 feet tall. His hard skin is brown on the outer side and beige on the inner side. In **Alien Force** and **Ultimate Alien**, he wore the original Omnitrix/Ultimatrix symbol on his chest. In **Alien Swarm**, Humungousaur has slit pupils. Negative Humungousaur, when Albedo transforms, has variations. In **Good Copy, Bad Copy**, he looked exactly like Ben's Humungousaur, while in **The Final Battle: Part 1**, he had red eyes and a red Ultimatrix symbol. In **Omniverse**, Negative Humungousaur has darker skin, creamy-white inner skin, and a red Ultimatrix sash across his chest in the opposite direction as Ben's Humungousaur, with matching red eyes. The Naljian Destructor as Humungousaur looked like Ben's Humungousaur in **Alien Force** and **Ultimate Alien**, but with glowing light green eyes and a glowing Omnitrix symbol.

Weaknesses: Humungousaur's large physique makes him an easy target for enemy attacks, and even his base size makes it impossible for him to fit into small spaces. He is more of a land-based alien, meaning he cannot breathe or swim underwater, and due to his immense size and weight, he can sink in water. Being a Vaxasaurian, Humungousaur is at a massive disadvantage against a Kaosseffexx Ultimasauria due to their ability to trap him in webbing, and he struggles to lift them. He can be stung by an Aerophibian's neuroshock blasts and is vulnerable to acid and electricity. Despite being resistant to heat, Humungousaur cannot hold objects if they become too hot. If Humungousaur is under the effects of a cold virus, his strength and stamina will be severely reduced.

Powers and Abilities: Humungousaur possesses incredible strength, being able to effortlessly lift and throw heavy objects up to a high altitude, even into near-earth orbit. At base size, he is physically stronger than Methanosians and Crystalsapiens, but weaker than Tetramands, some Highbreed, Evolved Vaxasaurians and To'kustars. His tail is also powerful enough to easily knock away Malware's third form. Humungousaur is strong enough to create shock waves by clapping his hands together and can also generate earthquakes. He has the power to increase or decrease his own body size and mass using dimensional displacement, growing up to nearly 60 feet at will, increasing his natural strength as he grows. At his full-size, Humungousaur is stronger than Tetramands, but is still weaker than To'kustars. He can also shrink down to about 10 feet. When Humungousaur grows, his dinosaur features become more pronounced, including features such as plates on his back akin to a member of Stegosauria, a crest on his forehead, and a thagomizer (set of spikes) on his tail. These features give him an extra edge in battle both defensively and offensively. Humungousaur can also generate his Stegosaurian features without changing size. Humungousaur possesses a thick, armored hide, which has proven to be durable enough to withstand getting hit by a truck, a fall from a very high altitude, pass through Baz-L's ship's force-field, and survive indirect blasts from an Evolved Vaxasaurian's missiles. Humungousaur is capable of jumping extremely high despite his size and weight and is quite fast and agile for his size, as he could somersault onto one of the Forever Knights' battle horses, perform a slide tackle, and evade attacks while in mid-air. Humungousaur can survive in the vacuum of space for a few minutes. His immense size and weight make him very useful for moving against strong suction forces and powerful winds. Humungousaur has a powerful roar, which he once used to scare away a large group of reporters. Humungousaur can run on all fours in a similar fashion to a bull or a rhinoceros.
