

Name: Heatblast

One-line Introduction: Heatblast is the Omnitrix's DNA sample of a Pyronite from the star Pyros.

Appearance: Heatblast is a plasma-based life-form with a super hot inner plasma body covered by dark reddish-brown volcanic rocks. He is seven feet tall and radiates high amounts of heat. His feet have a slight oval-like design with two toes and one back toe, and he has large hands with bridged wrists. His tongue is made of fire, and his collarbone resembles a volcano, generating a fiery hair-like aura that covers his head, leaving a mask-like face visible without a nose, ears, or pupils. Different versions of Heatblast have appeared throughout the Ben 10 series. When under the effects of a cold, Heatblast's fiery skin turned blue. In the movie Race Against Time, Heatblast had less fire on his head, with more of his head exposed, and cracks of yellow glow in his stone skin. In Ultimate Alien, Heatblast resembled Alan Albright, with a burnt black color and red markings on every edge of his rocky skin. In Omniverse, Heatblast looks the same as he did in Ultimate Alien, only his eyes are once again connected to the fire on his head, like in the Original Series. When put out by water, Heatblast's plasma body was a maroon color, and his rocky skin was a darker shade of red. Heatblast wears the Omnitrix/Ultimatrix/Omnitrix symbol on his chest. Kevin's Heatblast looked the exact same as Ben's did in the Original Series, albeit he had paler skin and lacked an Omnitrix symbol. Gwen's Heatblast was leaner, her chest was larger, and her face was longer and more curved. Ben 10,000's Heatblast looked similar to his younger self's, but he sported two miniature volcanoes on his shoulders and had a more muscular build. Sandra's Heatblast looks the same as Ben's in Destroy All Aliens, except she lacked the Omnitrix symbol.

History: Heatblast first appeared in And Then There Were 10, where he accidentally started a forest fire. He has since appeared in numerous episodes and movies across the Ben 10 franchise. He saved a mother and her son from a burning building in Washington B.C., and defeated the Limax in Permanent Retirement. In Kevin 11, Heatblast fought Kevin and got his powers temporarily absorbed. In Tourist Trap, Heatblast battled and destroyed the Nosedeniens' planetarium. Heatblast battled Malware in Trouble Helix, King Viktor in Viktor: The Spoils, and Ultimate Vilgax in The Ultimate Enemy: Part 1. In Of Predators and Prey, Heatblast was defeated by Crabdozer.

Weaknesses: Heatblast's fire attacks are ineffective against anything fireproof or capable of drawing strength from heat, such as Limax, Tetramands, Petrosapiens, Vaxasaurians, and especially Crabdozers, and weapons and/or armor made from the latter's DNA. He is also prone to burning where he sits or accidentally leaving scorch mark footprints on certain floors. If exposed to enough water, wind, or fire-extinguishing substances, Heatblast's fire will be extinguished. Heatblast can get dizzy by flying around in a continuous circle at extremely high speeds. Heatblast is vulnerable to an Aerophibian's neuroshock blasts. Despite his Corruptura immunity, Heatblast can still be controlled by Corruptura unless they are burned off his body. When under the effects of a cold, Heatblast's pyrokinesis is replaced with cryokinesis.

Powers and Abilities: Heatblast has the power of pyrokinesis, meaning that he can create and influence the direction and form of fire. He can project streams of fire from his hands and mouth and can create fireballs. He can also absorb both flames and heat. Heatblast can enhance the power of his punches by coating his fists in fire and can ignite his opponents or objects by touch or remotely. He can create constructs composed of fire, such as crescent-shaped weapons ("Fire Moons"), a fire dagger, and fire disks that explode on contact. Heatblast is capable of greatly amplifying the heat he gives off. He can create a small fire-board on which he can ride at high speeds and is capable of high-speed flight by propelling himself forward in the air. Heatblast has the power of terrakinesis, meaning he can control earth. Heatblast has enhanced strength and durability. He can use his powers underwater, but at a lower intensity, and he can even breathe underwater. Heatblast is immune to fire and is resistant to being frozen within ice. He is capable of generating smoke and can smack a body of water in order to create an offensive cloud of steam. When infected with a cold, Heatblast's powers are completely inverted, making his pyrokinesis becoming cryokinesis.

Personality: Not mentioned.