

Name: Spitter

One-line Introduction: Spitter is the Omnitrix's DNA sample of a Sphoeroid from the planet Scalpasc.

Appearance: Spitter is a bulbous alien resembling a pufferfish with legs, colored green on its outer side and pale green on its inner side. He has five sensory organs, three sticking out the top and one pair from the bottom of his head, arms with four-fingered hands, short and stubby legs, and a long tail. His mouth covers mostly the front of him and is filled with pointed teeth, with eyes connected to the corners of his lips. In the Original Series, Spitter had yellowish-green eyes, dull-colored teeth, and gums the same hue of green as his outer skin. He wore the Omnitrix symbol on his stomach. In the Ultimate Alien intro, Spitter looked the same as before, except his eyes were recolored light green, his teeth were recolored white, and his gums were recolored dark green. He also had lighter skin and wore the Ultimatrix symbol on his stomach. Ken's Spitter looked the same as Ben 10,000's Spitter in the Original Series.

History: Spitter first appeared in Ben 10,000, where he battled Dr. Animo. Later, he fought Vilgax before switching into Arctiguana. In Ken 10, Ben 10,000 as Spitter battled Mot Snikrep before switching into Diamondhead. Later, Ken as Spitter blasted Kevin 11,000 with slime before switching into Buzzshock. In the comics, specifically in The Once and Future Ben, Spitter tried to stop Vilgax 3000, but failed because Vilgax traveled back in time. Spitter also appeared in "Ben 10,000" and "Ken 10" as a cameo.

Weaknesses: Not mentioned.

Powers and Abilities: Spitter can inflate his upper body to unleash a concentrated blast of slime. This slime can effectively launch away large and bulky opponents. His slime is slippery and highly conductive, allowing electricity-producing allies to amplify the power of their attacks on opponents covered with it. Spitter is also amphibious, tending towards land or shallow waters.

Personality: Not mentioned.