

Name: Sentient Ultimate Echo Echo

One-line Introduction: A sentient version of the Ultimate Echo Echo transformation, formerly trapped within the Ultimatrix.

Appearance: The sentient Ultimate Echo Echo is visually identical to the Ultimate Echo Echo as seen in **Ultimate Alien**, with two distinguishing features: red eyes and the absence of the evolved Ultimatrix symbol on his chest.

History: The Sentient Ultimate Echo Echo was one of the sentient Ultimates trapped within the Ultimatrix. In **The Ultimate Sacrifice**, he, along with other Ultimates (excluding Ultimate Wildmutt and Ultimate Way Big), attempted to persuade Ben Tennyson to commit suicide to secure their freedom. Azmuth intervened, freeing them and relocating them to his lab, providing a comfortable and useful environment.

Weaknesses: Similar to regular Sonorosians, the Sentient Ultimate Echo Echo is vulnerable to electricity. Damage to his sonic discs causes him pain, as demonstrated when Negative Ultimate Echo Echo's discs were electrocuted. His metallic skin makes him susceptible to magnetization by a Biotsavartian. Suffocation can occur if a large amount of matter enters his lungs. Like regular Sonorosians, he can unintentionally harm his teammates' ears with his sonic vibrations. Unlike regular Sonorosians, the sentient Ultimate Echo Echo does not have the ability to duplicate himself.

Powers and Abilities: The Sentient Ultimate Echo Echo can release sonic waves from the Sonic Discs on his body with enough power to shatter steel, throw Ultimate Kevin through several buildings, heavily damage a Petrosapien, paralyze an Opticoid, and temporarily contain a blast from a Nuclear Fusion Grenade. He can create force fields out of sonic waves strong enough to block Petrosapien crystal shards and can release sonic screams. He can fly and levitate using sound waves and possesses enhanced strength, demonstrated when he briefly helped Kevin hold open a door on Mikd'lty. He exhibits enhanced durability, capable of withstanding being thrown through walls and being struck by a To'kustar. The Sentient Ultimate Echo Echo can survive and use his powers in the vacuum of space and is immune to low temperatures. His Sonic Disks can project powerful sonic blasts capable of knocking out opponents, destroying projectiles, and destroying a military tank, and he can multiply these disks. He can also use the Sonic Disks to perform "Sonic Doom," surrounding an enemy and firing full sonic blasts.

Personality: Not mentioned.