

Name: Terraspin

One-line Introduction: Terraspin is the Omnitrix's DNA sample of a Geochelone Aerios from the planet Aldabra in the Andromeda Galaxy.

Appearance: Terraspin is a green turtle-like alien with large flipper-like arms and stumpy legs. He has green eyes and the tips of his arms have three holes each, which can extend finger-like claws to use as fingers. In Ultimate Alien, Terraspin had eight holes in his shell and a circular body shape. In Omniverse, he looks mostly the same, except he now has six holes in his shell, brown spots on his upper legs, toes, and shoulders, and a hexagonal and slightly larger body shape. The black stripes under his eyes are thicker, his legs are shorter, and his feet have each gained three toes. Terraspin wears the Ultimatrix/Omnitrix symbol on his chest.

History: In Ultimate Alien, Terraspin's DNA was sampled and put in the Codon Stream when the Ultimatrix scanned Galapagus' DNA. Terraspin first appeared in Reflected Glory, where he fought and destroyed a giant robot created by the Forever Knights. In The Forge of Creation, Terraspin defeated some Aggrebots in the Rustbucket 3. In Absolute Power: Part 1, Terraspin blew Gwen into a wall, but she used a spell to slow him down, making him powerless and forcing him to switch into NRG. In Revenge of the Swarm, Terraspin, Gwen, and Kevin broke into Victor's old lab and met the janitor. In Basic Training, Terraspin put out a fire in Hulka's barracks. In Simian Says, Terraspin briefly battled some DNAlien Arachnachimps until he reverted. In The Widening Gyre, Terraspin fought some mutated seagulls. In Inspector #13, Terraspin blew all of Thirteen's bombs away to get Julie to safety. In Omniverse, Terraspin sucked all the gas out of an Undertown establishment named Gas House in The More Things Change: Part 2, revealing Bubble Helmet. In Many Happy Returns, Terraspin was defeated by Princess Looma. In T.G.I.S., Terraspin battled some Chupacabras. In Vilgax Must Croak, Terraspin blew away General Attea and EightEight. In While You Were Away, Terraspin helped land the harvester ship Young One was piloting. In The Ultimate Heist, Terraspin battled Negative Goop and tried to get the Polymorphic Crystal, but failed when Albedo threw an object that jammed his shell. In For a Few Brains More, Terraspin rescued Azmuth and his brain. In Catfight, Terraspin battled Princess Looma until Attea used the Omnitrix Remote Control to change him into Bullfrag. In Universe vs. Tennyson, Terraspin defeated Fistina. In Rook Tales, Terraspin failed to take off Young One's tail. In A New Dawn, Terraspin appeared for a short time when Ben was cycling through his aliens.

Weaknesses: Unless he is flying, Terraspin's body is cumbersome and not very agile. When Terraspin is spinning around, the air vents on his chest are vulnerable to being jammed with large foreign objects, causing him immense discomfort and forcing him to stop spinning and remove the object. Terraspin is not fully immune to manna attacks. Terraspin is vulnerable to electricity, such as that generated by an Amperi.

Powers and Abilities: Terraspin can expel powerful gusts of wind from the vents on his front shell to push opponents away. He can form his limbs into rotating fans to amplify this, where his fins become triangular and sharp, and his legs combine and morph into a similar shape. In combination, Terraspin's three fans can whirl incredibly fast, while his shell stays static and suspended in the air, and generate hurricane-force winds or destructive, mini corkscrew cyclones. Terraspin possesses aerokinesis, allowing him to influence the direction of wind in the air and generate tornadoes without spinning. Terraspin's wind blasts are powerful enough to put out fires and redirect objects.

Terraspin can also harness his aerokinetic powers to fly, blowing air to hover over a surface and using his rotating limbs as propellers. Terraspin can also spin in reverse, creating strong vacuums, which he can utilize to absorb lethal toxins out of the nearby air. Terraspin possesses enhanced strength and durability, as his thick, impermeable shell protects him from most assaults. Terraspin is immune to poisonous gas and is resistant to manna. Terraspin can extend the black holes at the tips of his flippers into finger-like claws. He can also fully retract his head and limbs into his shell. Terraspin is capable of using magic, but Ben cannot stay transformed as Terraspin long enough to learn it without Master Control.

Personality: Not mentioned.